Cutting Property Taxes

Rob supported the first property tax reform in Pennsylvania in decades. The new law adds more than 40,000 senior citizens to the Property Tax and Rent Rebate program and for the first time requires voter approval before school districts can raise property taxes beyond the rate of inflation. He is continuing to fight for real reform as well as address how we fund our public schools before property owners are literally taxed out of their homes.

Making Prescription Drugs More Affordable

Rob introduced legislation to create a cancer drug repository, allowing cancer patients to receive life-saving medications at minimal to no cost. He also supported legislation to add 110,000 more seniors to the state's seniors prescription drug program PACE and PACENET.

Keeping Our Doctors in Pennsylvania

Rob worked on legislation to end frivolous lawsuits in Pennsylvania. By limiting runaway jury awards and cutting down on frivolous lawsuits, which are driving up medical malpractice rates, Pennsylvania can bring doctors and their practices back into the Commonwealth.

Protecting Our Rights

He spearheaded several new cyber security laws to protect Pennsylvanians from identity theft. The legislative package of bills includes efforts to protect consumers from spyware, data breaches, and restricts requests for social security numbers and fines companies that violate these security regulations.
