Editorial

Thursday October 26, 2006

“Wonderling has gotten bills passed to protect people against identity theft. He’s backing several forward thinking reforms . . . As a senator who seems to enjoy policy working as much as the political process, Wonderling has emerged as one of the brighter minds in the senate. He has earned a second term.”

Protecting Our Environments:

Supported Growing Greener II, an initiative to protect, restore, conserve and preserve Pennsylvania’s environment and natural resources; including watershed protection, mine reclamation, and brownfields cleanup.

Creating Real Tax Reform:

In an effort to provide real property tax relief to all Pennsylvanians, especially our seniors and individuals living on fixed incomes, Rob voted in favor of a bill that will add more than 400,000 senior citizens to the state’s Property Tax and Rent Rebate program and require a voter approval before school districts can raise property taxes beyond the rate of inflation.

Improving Education:

Over the past four years, Rob has supported educational assistance programs that target struggling school districts that have not met the state’s academic performance targets in reading or math. He has supported increases for elementary school funding and the Commonwealth’s education improvement tax credit.

Good Government:

Voted against the pay raise, refused the unvouchered expenses, and lead the fight to repeal the pay raise.
